MAYOR EDWARDS WANTS HEALTH OFFICER FOR CITY

Present Plan Not Satisfactory Nor Is It a Safe Arrangement to Continue.

JOE RUELAND IS NEW FIREMAN

Insurance Agents Report Business at Meeting of City Council.

At the adjourned meeting of the city council last evening Mayor Edwards called the attention of the council to the present unsatisfactory arrangement as regards a health officer. Recently the council honored Peter McCoy with the title of health officer and the duties of city scavenger. There should be two officers and while the work of one pertains to the work of the other, neither can do the work of the other.

In justice to the city, as Mayor Edwards expressed it, Dixon needs a health officer; a man who knows what is right in regard to the sanitary conditions of the city. A physician only can fill this position. The matter was brought forcibly to Mayor Edwards' attention by the remarks of two physicians who said that this was likely to be a fat fall for their business. "For what reason?" asked Mr. Edwards. The physicians then directed his attention to the sediment which was being taken away from the old dam and deposited on the river banks where it will breed germs of disease. A health officer would take cognizance of these things and correct the mistakes of thoughtless workmen. This is but an illustration and one of many which a physician could find. Mayor Edwards suggested that the aldermen consider the matter and at the next meeting have a physician appointed in whom they would have confidence.

INSURANCE COMPANIES REPORT.

All the members of the council except Aldermen Gage and Sterling were present at the meeting. City Clerk Bardwell reported that the assessment of 2 per cent on the premiums of business done by foreign insurance companies in Dixon had been paid by ten of the local agents, the amount paid being $525.71 which he stated was $150 more than paid in last year. The agents who reported are F. N. Fargo, F. M. Smith, Geo. W. Keller, E. E. Wingert, W. W. Woolley, Lewis & Raymond, E. W. Smith, F. E. Stiteley Co., J. N. Sterling and Johnson & Avery.

NEW FIREMAN APPOINTED.

At the last meeting the fire and water committee was instructed to investigate the alleged trouble at the fire hall and report. Alderman Schorr of the committee said that they considered matters adjusted properly and expected Fireman James to return to work, but that he had failed to do so.

Alderman Gannon then moved that Fireman James resignation be taken from the table. This was carried and followed by a motion that the resignation be accepted, which also carried.

Mayor Edwards then said that he would appoint Milton Stahl as fireman subject to the approval of the council. By vote the appointment was not approved. The name of Joseph Rueland was then presented by the mayor and was unanimously approved. No other applications were received.

There being no other unfinished business the council adjourned to the next regular meeting.

LYE BURNS A LITTLE CHILD

Three Year Old Daughter of James Forder the Victim.

The 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Forder of east Sterling got some lye in her mouth Thursday, but was not seriously burned. Mrs. Forder had been cleaning with lye water and the little one seeing the can of water stuck her fingers in it, and when it burned her fingers, child-like she stuck them in her mouth. She was not badly burned.

Bees Swarmed on Post.

A swarm of bees in Sterling gathered on the top of a hitching post in front of a residence Wednesday. They did not attempt to harm the passersby and was quite a curiosity until the rain scattered them.

STERLING GIRL LOCATED

Placed Under Arrest Before Accomplishing Expected Elopement.

Miss Vivian Smith, the girl who mysteriously disappeared from her home in Rock Falls Wednesday morning, was located by Chief of Police Baker at Cedar Rapids, Ia. After a considerable amount of telephoning had been done the girl was finally located, and the chief of police at Cedar Rapids was ordered to place her under arrest. If she had a sufficient amount of money the chief was to take it, buy her ticket to Sterling, place her on a car and send her home. If not, the girl was to be held until an officer could go from Sterling to Cedar Rapids, secure her and bring her back. It was learned that the girl had intended to go from Cedar Rapids to Fort Dodge, Ia., and as far as known she did not elope and marry the young man as stated in the Gazette.

Miss Smith arrived in Sterling on the 3:29 train Friday afternoon and a dispatch from the Cedar Rapids officer stated that she left for her home willingly.

UNDER $1,500 BONDS

William Cushman, Former Dixon Insurance Man Appears Before Justice Leech--Waives Hearing.

IS BONDED OVER TO GRAND JURY

Goes to Jail--Could Not Furnish Bondsmen.

This morning William Cushman who was bought from Michigan City, Ind., by Deputy Sheriff McGowan last night, was given a chance of a hearing before William Leech, justice of the peace. He waived his privilege of a hearing; accordingly, on the suggestion of Assistant State's Attorney Edwards, he was bound over to the grand jury under bonds for $1,500. He was asked by the court if he could furnish a bondsman, but Mr. Cushman said that he could not furnish the necessary bondsman, accordingly, he was committed to the county jail where he will remain until he is brought before the grand jury in September. The bonds were set at $1,500 on account of the grave charge upon which Mr. Cushman was arrested. He was arrested upon a warrant sworn out on the one hundred and fifty dollar note upon which Mr. Hartwell's name had been forged by Mr. Cushman. This note was cashed at the City National bank by Mr. Cushman on his wedding day.

The forgeries committed by William Cushman will amount to about $3,500, though much of this was used simply as collateral. Two notes of $1,000 each supposedly signed by Alvin Jones of Polo, an old friend of Mr. Cushman, were used as collateral, one for a loan of $110 at the Dixon National bank about a year ago and the other given to Mrs. Hartwell as security for a loan of $500 at the time of his marriage to Mr. and Mrs. Hartwell's foster daughter. He had also borrowed $500 from John Hoffman of Dixon on Nov. 30, 1903, giving a mortgage on property in Polo, which in fact belonged to his foster mother, Mary A. Cushman, but for which he showed a deed to show he owned it. This deed was also a forgery.

ROYAL JONES DELEGATE.

To Represent Loyal Americans at National Congress.

The delegates to the general assembly of the Loyal Americans met in this city Aug. 19th to elect a delegate to the national congress to be held in Chicago, Aug. 22nd, at the Great Northern Hotel.

The meeting was called to order by Deputy Anderson. J. S. Meyer of Ottawa was elected chairman and C. E. Jones secretary.

Royal Jones was elected delegate to the national congress and C. E. Hodgson of Rock Island as alternate.

—Will Trein returned to Ashton this morning, coming home last evening.

—Miss Mary Woodbridge spent today at Franklin Grove attending the campmeeting.

WILLIAM C. GILLISPIE INJURED AT FREEPORT

Crushed In Accident in the Illinois Central Yards at Freeport Last Night.

A TRAIN AND ENGINE COLLIDE

Bert Gillispie, a Brother Went to Freeport This Morning.

Word was received here early this morning by Bert Gillispie that his brother, William C., had been crushed and badly injured in an accident on the Illinois Central at Wallace just before midnight. Mr. Gillispie went to Freeport on the first train available.

The accident happened in the north yards of the Central at Wallace about 11:20 last night. A freight train going north required the help of a switch engine and one was sent out after it. On the foot board at its head were standing brakemen Matthews and Gillispie and Engine Foreman Jones. Conductor Reardon was on the caboose platform at the rear of the freight train.

Suddenly an air hose on the freight train broke brining train to a stop so quickly that the switch engine crashed into it, before the enginemen could prevent. The four men were unable to jump, so suddenly did the collision take place and were caught and thrown under the cars and engine.

Mr. Gillispie had one leg cut off and was considerably bruised. Matthews was run over and both his legs were cut off, while Jones was thrown onto a flag stake and three of his ribs were broken. Conductor Reardon was caught between the engine and way car and badly crushed. The injured men were at once taken to the hospital where this morning Matthews died from his injuries. He with Reardon and Jones made his home in Freeport. The caboose was badly smashed, the entire rear part being crushed in.

William C. Gillispie was a switchman in the Illinois Central yards at Dixon for a considerable time and was also employed at the freight office. He roomed on Second street. His brother Charles, formerly a cutter in the shoe factory, is now in St. Louis, while his father resides at Bridgeport, Ill. The young man is about 28 years of age.

FIRE DEPARTMENT IS BUSY

Has First Call in Six Weeks--Clinton Paper Mill Burns--$5,000 Loss.

This morning the six weeks silence of the Dixon fire bell was broken by an alarm sent at 9 o'clock from the Weigle building on Galena avenue. When the department got to the fire, it was found that the stairway and barbershop in the Weigle building was full of smoke. The firemen at once set to work to find the fire. It eluded them for a few minutes, as the fire seemed to be concealed at the head of the stairs which lead to the second floor of the building. The stairs were torn up, and using four chemicals the blaze was extinguished. The loss will amount to about twenty-five dollars.

It is supposed that rats carrying matches caused the fire. This is the only possible theory for the origin of the blaze as there is no heating apparatus that would cause a fire at the top of the stairs. This is the first fire the department has been called to in over six weeks.

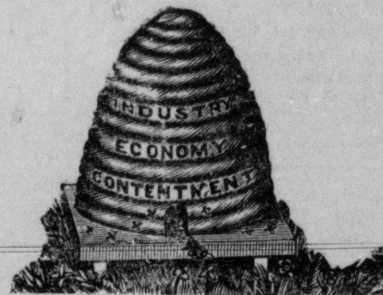

BAD FIRE AT CLINTON.

One of the largest fires that Clinton has had for a number of years was that of the mill of the Clinton Paper company which was totally destroyed Thursday evening. The blaze broke out shortly after 6 o'clock after the day crew had left the works and the night crew was going on. The blaze was discovered in the rag cutter room in the rear of the mill by one of the employees who turned in an alarm. The mill was a wooden structure and only a little of it was saved. It is not known what caused the fire but it is supposed that it originated from spontaneous combustion in a pile of rags. G. C. Smith & Son are the owners of the concern and they estimate that their loss will be about five thousand dollars.

—Mayor I. F. Edwards and wife will take supper this evening with Dr. Jane Keefer of Sterling.

—Miss Sophia Johnson who has been visiting friends in this city, returned to her home in Marion, Ind.

QUALITY IS OUR WATCHWORD

For six years we have steadfastly adhered to the idea which guides us at the first of our business career. We have been fighting the battle of Quality against Cheapness. How well we have succeeded is best shown in the PRE-EMINENT position OUR work holds in the mind of those who seek THE VERY BEST. Today the name of "City Steam Laundry" stands for all that is best in the Laundry industry and nothing could induce us to change the policy to which we are at the present time. The price may be up or down, but the standard of quality is NEVER lessened—we better it when we can. By these methods we hope to enlist your interest and gain your confidence and patronage.

"Mrs. Wiggs at the Grand"
"Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" is in its seventh week at the Grand Opera House and is playing to capacity patronage. One week after this will give opportunity to belated amusement seekers to see the best drawing attraction of the summer season. The presence in the cast of such capable players as Madge Carr Cooke, Mabel Talliaferro, Will T. Hodge and Helen Lowell accounts for a heavy per cent. of the play's popularity, which is also due somewhat to the general interest evinced in the novel itself upon which the production is founded.
The good-humored wit and wisdom of Mrs. Wiggs, voiced in her management of the social affairs of the Cabbage Patch, take on additional luster in the masterful portrayal given the character by Mrs. Cooke; Lovey Mary, Chris, Mis. Hazy, the bibulous Stubbins, the cross-grained Mrs. Eicnor, and the geographical little solons of the house of Wiggs, are characters in whom one's interest is constantly sustained because of the admirable talent of the respective players engaged.
The play has known no light houses during its stay, and prospects are bright for the remaining week of its engagement.

Modern Woodmen Excursion to St. Louis via the Illinois Central Ry.

On Sunday, September 4th, and Tuesday, September 6th, the Illinois Central Ry. will sell tickets to St. Louis and return at greatly reduced rates. (Only about 1c per mile) for the benefit of the Modern Woodmen, their families and their friends who wish to visit the World's Fair.
(Over 4,000 Uniformed Forersters will be in camp during Woodmen Week commencing September 5th.) This will be a great opportunity for Woodmen to visit the exposition and join in the what will undoubtedly be the greatest parade in the history of the order. For full information as to rates, train schedules, etc., apply to your local Illinois Central Ticket Agent.

CHAPTER XXI.

ONE or two other men were writing at a table and another stalwart officer of rank was sitting by the fire reading. None of the four men coming into the room had seen the general before, except Talbot. As the door opened, his excellency glanced up inquiringly and, recognizing the first figure, stepped forward quickly, extending his hand. All the other officers rising and drawing near at the same time.

"What, Talbot! I trust you bring good news, sir?"

"I do, sir," said the young officer, saluting.

"The transport?" said the general in great anxiety.

"Captured, sir."

"Her lading?"

"Two thousand muskets, twenty field-pieces, powder, shot, intrenching tools, other munitions of war; 10,000 suits of winter clothes, blankets and shoes, and four officers and fifty soldiers; all bound for Quebec, where the British army is assembling."

"Now Almighty God be praised!" exclaimed the general with deep feeling. "From whence do you come now?"

"From Philadelphia, sir."

"Ah, you thought best to take your prize there instead of Boston! It was a risk, was it not? But now that you are there it is better for us here. Who are your companions, sir? Pray present them to me."

"Lieutenant Seymour, sir, of the navy, who brought in the prize."

"Sir, I congratulate you. I am glad to see you."

"And this is Philip Wilton, a midshipman. I think you know him, general."

"Certainly I do; the son of my old friend the commissioner, Colonel Wilton of Virginia, now unhappily a prisoner. You are very welcome, my boy. And who is this other man, Talbot?"

"William Bentley, sir, bos'n of the Ranger, at your honor's service," answered the seaman himself.

"Well, my man," said the general, smiling, "if the Ranger has many like you in her crew she must show a formidable lot of men. I am glad to see you all. These are my staff, gentlemen, the members of my family, to whom I present you. General Greene, General Knox, and these two boys here are Captain Alexander Hamilton and the Marquis de La Fayette, a volunteer from France, who comes to serve our country without money or without price, for love of liberty. This is Major Harrison, this Captain Laurens, this Captain Morris of the Philadelphia troop, our only cavalry. They serve like the marquis, for love of liberty. I know not how I could dispense with them."

The gentlemen bowed ceremoniously, and some of them shook hands with the newcomers.

"Billy," continued Washington, turning to his black servant, "I wish you to get something to eat for these gentlemen. It's only bread and meat that we can offer you, I am sorry to say. We are not living in a very luxurious style at present—on rather short rations, on the contrary. But meanwhile you will take a glass of this excellent punch with us, and we will drink to a merry Christmas. Fill your glasses, gentlemen all. Your news is the first good news we have had for so long that we have almost forgot what good news is. It is certainly very pleasant for us, eh, gentlemen? Now give us some of the details of the capture of the transport. How was it? You, Mr. Seymour, are the sailor of the party. Do you tell us about it."

Then in that rude farmhouse among the hills on that bitter winter day Seymour told the story of the sighting of the convoy and the ruse by which the capture of the two ships had been effected, at which General Washington laughed heartily. Then he described in a graphic, seamanlike way the wonderful night action, the capture of the Juno by the heroic captain of the Ranger, the successful escape of that ship from the frigate and the sinking of the Juno. He was interrupted from time to time by exclamations and deep gasps of excitement from the officers crowding about him. Even Billy, bringing the dinner, put it down unheeded and listened with eyes glistening. And then Seymour delivered Jones' message to General Washington.

"Wonderful man, wonderful man!" he said. "We shall hear of him, I think, in the English channel, and the English also, which is more to the point. But your own ship—had you an eventful passage, Mr. Seymour? And, gentlemen, you look as solemn as if you were the bearers of bad news instead of good tidings, or had been retreating with us for the past six months. Thank goodness, that's about over tonight. Fill your glasses, gentlemen. 'Tis Christmas day. Now for your own story. Did you meet an enemy's ship?"

"We did, sir. Talbot, you tell the story."

"No, no; I cannot. 'Tis your part, Seymour."

Here in the presence of friends and friends who knew and loved Colonel Wilton and his daughter, neither of the young men felt equal to the tale. Each day brought home to them their bitter sorrow more powerfully than before, and each hour but deepened the anguish in their hearts.

"Why, what is this? What has happened? The transport is safe, you said," continued the general in some anxiety. "What is it?"

"What is it?"

"What is it?"

"What is it?"

"What is it?"

"What is it?"

"What is it?"

"What is it?"

"What is it?"

"What is it?"

"What is it?"

"What is it?"

"What is it?"

"What is it?"

"What is it?"

"What is it?"

"What is it?"

"What is it?"

"What is it?"

"What is it?"

"What is it?"

"What is it?"

"What is it?"

"What is it?"

"What is it?"

"What is it?"

"What is it?"

"What is it?"

lence. "A frightful catastrophe, indeed, and a terrible one! I do not wonder at your sadness. But, young gentlemen, do not take it so to heart. It is the fate of war, and war is always frightful."

"Did you find out the name of the ship, boatswain?" asked General Greene.

"Yes, your honor—the Radnor, thirty-six."

"Could no one have been saved?" queried General Knox.

"No one, sir. No boat could have lived in that sea a moment. We could not put back, could do no good if we had, and so we came on to Philadelphia, and that's all."

"No, general," cried Seymour; "it's not all! We will tell the general the whole story, Talbot. You remember, sir, the raid on the Wilton place and the capture of the colonel and his daughter?" The general nodded.

"Well, sir, before the Ranger sailed I received a note from Miss Wilton saying they were to be sent to England in the Radnor."

"You received the note? I thought she was Mr. Talbot's betrothed, Mr. Seymour."

"I thought so, too, general, but it seems that we are both wrong. Lieutenant Seymour captured her during his visit there with Colonel Wilton," said Talbot, with a faint smile.

"I am very sorry for you, Talbot, and you are a fortunate man, Mr. Seymour. But go on. We are all friends here. Did you say they were to go on the Radnor?"

"Yes, sir. The pursuing frigate was recognized by one of my men, who had been pressed and fogged while on her, as the Radnor, the ship on which they were. I heard the man say so just as we neared the reef. To go through the pass was to lead the English ship to destruction and cause the death of those we—of the colonel, sir," continued Seymour in some confusion.

"To refrain from attempting the pass was to lose the ship and all it meant for our cause. I could not decide. I say frankly I could not condemn those I—our friends to death, and I could not lose the ship either. This old man knew it all. He has known me from a child. He spoke out boldly and laid my duty before me and pleaded with me."

"He did not need it, your honor. No, sir; he would have done it anyway," interrupted Bentley.

The general took the hand of the embarrassed old boatswain and shook it warmly; then, fixing his glowing eyes upon the two young men, said:

"Continue, Mr. Seymour."

"I know not what I might have done, but the old seaman's appeal to my honor decided me. I went aft with horror in my heart, but resolved to do my duty. On my way there I took out of my pocket the little note received from Miss Wilton. A gust of wind blew it to the hand of Mr. Talbot. It was only a line. As he picked it up he read it involuntarily. We had some words. I drew on him, sir. It was my fault."

"No, no, general; the fault was mine!" interrupted Talbot. "I said it was my letter, refused to give it up, insulted him. He would have arrested me. Bentley and Philip interfered. I taunted him, advanced to strike him. He had to draw or be dishonored."

"Nay, general, but the fault was mine. I was the captain of the ship. The safety of the ship depended on me."

"Go on, go on, Mr. Seymour," said the general. "This dispute does honor to you both."

"The rest happened as has been told you. One of the splinters struck Mr. Talbot's sword and swept it into the sea. The note went with it, and then the frigate was wrecked and Colonel Wilton and his daughter, with all the rest, lost."

"It was very still in the room. My poor friend, my poor friend," murmured the general, "and that charming girl. Without a moment's warning! Young gentlemen," taking each of the young men by the hand, "I honor you. You have deserved well of our country for the frankness with which one of you admits his fault, for it was a fault, and takes the blame upon himself, and for the heroic resolution by which the other sacrifices his love for his duty. Laurens, make out a captain's commission for Mr. Talbot. Hamilton, I wish you would write out a general order declaring the capture of the transport and her lading and the sinking of the Juno and the wreck of the English frigate. It will hearten the men for our enterprise tonight. As for you, Mr. Seymour, I shall use what little influence I may be able to exert to get you a ship at once. Meantime, as we contemplate attacking the enemy at last, I shall be glad to offer you a position as volunteer on my staff for a few days if your duties will permit. And to you, Philip, let me be a father indeed—my poor boy! As for you, boatswain, what can I do for you?"

"Nothing, your honor; nothing, sir. You have shaken me by the hand, and that's enough." The old man hesitated, and then, seeing only kindness in the general's face, for the old sailor attracted and pleased him, he went on softly: "Aye, love's a mighty thing, your honor. We know it, we old men. And love of woman's strong, they say, but these boys have shown us that something else is stronger."

"And what is that, pray, my friend?"

"Love of country, sir," said Bentley in the silence.

CHAPTER XXII.

HALF an hour later, after the four travelers had taken some refreshment, hasty steps were heard outside the door, followed by the sentry's hail.

"Ah," said the general, looking up eagerly from the book he had been reading, "perhaps that is Mr. Martin with news from the enemy?" Then, laying aside his book, he rose to his feet to meet the newcomer, who proved to be the man he had expected. The young man stood at attention and saluted, while the general addressed him sharply:

"Well, sir, what have you learned?"

The young officer appeared extremely embarrassed. "I—well, the fact is, sir, nothing at all," he stammered.

"Nothing," said the general loudly, with rising heat; "nothing, sir! Did you not cross the river as I directed you?"

"No, sir—that is, I tried to, but there was so much floating ice and it was so difficult to manage a boat that I thought it would be hardly worth while to attempt it, sir. In fact, the crossing is impracticable for troops," he went on more confidently, but his face changed as he looked up at his infuriated superior. The general was a picture of wrath, the lines in his forehead standing out plainly, his mouth shut more tightly and grimly than ever. It was evident that he was furiously angry, and his face had in it something terrible from his rage. The young officer stood before him now, white and frightened to death.

"I saw him this way at Kip's Landing," whispered Hamilton to Seymour. "Look! He has lost control of himself completely. There will be an explosion sure."

The general struggled for a moment and then broke away.

"Impracticable, sir, impracticable!" he roared out in a voice of thunder. "How dare you say what this army can or cannot do? And what do you mean by not crossing the river and ascertaining the facts I desire to know?" The next moment he stepped forward and, seizing a heavy leaden inkstand from the table near him, threw it with all his force full at the man, crying fiercely:

"Be off and send me a man!"

The officer dodged the missile, which struck the wall with a crash, saluted and ran out of the door as if his life depended on it, feeling in his heart that he would face any danger rather than brave another storm of wrath like that he had just sustained. The general continued to pace up and down the room restlessly for a few moments until he recovered his composure.

"I depended upon that information, and I must have it," he soliloquized. "If that man does not bring it back to us before we cross the river I'll have him cashiered. Shall I send another man? No; I'll give him another chance."

Seymour picked up the book the general had been reading. It was the Bible, and open at the twenty-second chapter of the book of Joshua. His eye fell full upon the twenty-second verse, which was marked. "The Lord God of gods, the Lord God of gods, he knoweth, and Israel he shall know; if it be in rebellion, or if in transgression against the Lord (save us not this day)."

Just then the little daughter of Keith, the owner of the farmhouse at which they were staying, entered the room. As the little miss came up fearlessly to the general he stopped and smiled down at her.

"Father and mother wish to know if you will want supper tonight, sir?"

"No, my little maid," he replied. "Not here, at any rate. And which do you like the better now, the redcoats or the Continentals?"

"The redcoats, sir; they have such pretty clothes," said the nascent woman.

"Ah, my dear," he replied blithely, catching her up in his arms and kissing her the while, "they look better, but they don't fight. The ragged fellows are the boys for fighting."

"Singular man!" mused Seymour, contrasting the outbreak of wrath at the recalcitrant officer, the open Bible he had been reading and the last merry, tender greeting to the child. But his musings were interrupted by the general himself speaking.

"General Greene, you would better ride over to the landing, and place the different brigades. Take Hamilton with you, and perhaps General Knox will go also to look out for the artillery. The brigades were to start at 3 o'clock for McConkey's Ford, and the nearest of them should be there now. We shall move in two divisions after we leave Birmingham on the other side. ### NOTED DEMOCRATS FOR ROOSEVELT.

Telegraphic dispatches from New York state that John A. McCall, president of the New York Life Insurance Company, is going to vote for Roosevelt and Fairbanks.

Mr. McCall is a Democrat. His brother is Justice McCall of the supreme court, elected on the Tammany ticket a year ago. Mr. McCall has been a lifelong friend of Judge Parker, but not only is he going to vote the Republican ticket but he is working effectively for its success.

The announcement at Democratic state headquarters that Mr. McCall was out against Parker caused dismay. The importance of the attitude of the president of a corporation like a great insurance company when he leaves his party and stands for sound money can hardly be estimated. As the custodian of millions of dollars of earnings of wage workers, the head of a life insurance company is compelled to scrutinize with great care the position taken by the great national parties with reference to maintaining a stable currency. The spectacle of the St. Louis convention refusing to abandon its free silver heresies has set candid insurance men, bankers and other heads of financial institutions thinking about the folly of turning over the government to a political organization that will not promise to keep the currency of the nation on a stable footing.

FAMOUS TELEGRAM DID HARM.

The Parker telegram instead of reassuring insurance men of the McCall type deepened the feeling of revulsion toward the forces back of Parker and Davis.

Democrat, though he is, President McCall will not stand by his party until it places itself above suspicion on the currency question.

Major John Byrne, president of the Democratic Honest money league, 1896 and 1900, which had branches in nineteen states and was instrumental in influencing a number of gold democrats to vote for President McKinley has announced himself in favor of the election of President Roosevelt. He wishes his reasons made known, so that his friend and followers may understand his position, and if convinced that he is right follow in line. In reply to the question, "Where do you stand in the political contest this year?" Major Byrne replied: "I stand precisely where I stood in 1896 and in 1900, and in the congress campaign of 1897 in national politics—with the friends of honest money and national integrity, as embodied in the gold standard and represented by them who have supported and who are supporting it on principle."

"You do not think both parties stand for that?"

DEMOCRACY HAD ITS CHANCE.

"No; as I view the situation and the question the Democratic party does not. It had the opportunity at St. Louis to place itself on a platform of that character, but it positively refused to do so by kicking out of the proposed platform a plank which, though weak and apologetic, was entitled a gold plank, offered by conservative men who would rescue the party from Populistic influences and restore it to Democratic lines. It was, however, obnoxious to the radical and Populistic hosts controlling the convention and evidently still in control of the party."

"You do not agree with some Democrats, then, that Judge Parker's telegram, which the convention accepted, cured the defects of the platform?"

PARKER SAVED HIS FACE.

"No, I do not so regard it. Judge Parker, realizing, no doubt, that absolutely no hope existed for his election on the platform adopted, informed his representatives that he regarded the question of the gold standard as settled and would govern himself accordingly and could not accept the renomination on any other understanding. And the convention, facing a crisis and realizing that chaos and party disintegration and ruin would follow rejection of its nominee, governed solely by expediency, violated its principles and under pressure of political necessity accepted Judge Parker on his own terms."

"It was a transaction of doubtful character, of problematical value to the country, and, as I view it, not creditable to either faction of the party. The deal that secured the surrender by Senator Tillman of his cherished convictions and his acceptance of Judge Parker as the party candidate on the terms set forth in that telegram bodes no good to the country if Judge Parker is elected."

ANOTHER DEMOCRAT TURNS.

Richard Price Morgan of Dwight, Ill., who has declared in favor of Roosevelt, is one of the most distinguished Democrats of Illinois. He is the founder of the village of Dwight and was named for his great uncle, Dr. Richard Price of revolutionary fame. Mr. Morgan left the Democracy once before to support Abraham Lincoln and returned to the party when Samuel Tilden was nominated for the presidency.

TRIUMPH OF DIPLOMACY.

A correspondent in the New York Tribune pays tribute to Secretary Hay as a diplomat in the following letter to the editor:

Sir: In your admirable editorial of August 15 on "The Turkish Settlements," you closed the article with these words: "In a great diplomatic victory all parties should loyally rejoice." May we not go further and say that all parties should loyally rejoice that we have for Secretary of State that clear headed, skillful Christian diplomat, John Hay, and pause before voting for a change of administration to consider that in the event of such a change the country, which, largely through his skill, has risen to such honor among the nations of the earth, would be deprived of his services? What lover of his country would rejoice or feel proud to see any one of the statesmen (heaven save the mark!) who are nearest to Judge Parker, and to whom he owes his nomination, rattle around in the place which Secretary Hay has so creditably filled?

In the difficult and dangerous complications which have arisen between this and other nations, especially in the Far East, Secretary Hay has been recognized, not only at home, but abroad, as the ablest diplomat of them all. He has placed diplomacy on a higher plane. His work has been marked not by selfishness, craftiness and double dealing, but by the more lofty and Christian spirit of justice to all, a new idea in diplomacy. There will be other and perhaps more difficult questions to decide as the result of the war in the East. This country, and other countries, will need the services of John Hay. Roosevelt and Hay; surely not an "unsafe" combination. Parker and—which statesman is it?—Hill, Sheehan, Taggart, McCarran, Devery; one of them has a right to it, for they have all earned it. No matter, the people will decide.

DELMONICO OPENS MONDAY

Paul Kelly Will be in Charge Under New Management.

Mrs. E. M. Duchack, wife of the deceased proprietor of the Delmonico restaurant, arrived from Chicago this morning and is at the E. A. Bartholomew home. She spent part of the morning at the restaurant and has decided to continue the business, as the lease had been paid in advance for a number of months. Mrs. Duchack will later remove from Chicago to Dixon. Paul Kelly will have charge of the restaurant and will retain all the former employees. The Delmonico will reopen Monday, breakfast being served on that day.

NEW POSTAL ORDERS

Parcels Post Packages for Japan Are Now Admitted in the Mails.

SIGNALS FOR RURAL MAIL BOXES

For Convenience of Carriers: Orders in Effect August 1st.

Much general information which will be of interest to the public in regard to the postal service is contained in the new United States Official Postal Guide. Probably the most important topic discussed in the pamphlet and which will be valuable to merchants, especially is the report of the Parcels-Post convention between the United States and Japan. According to an agreement which went into effect between the two nations August 1. Parcels-Post packages for destination in Japan will now be admitted in the mails for Japan made up and dispatched from this country. The order, which is addressed by Postmaster General H. C. Payne and which is entitled Order No. 777, is as follows:

"A Parcels-Post convention having been concluded between the United States and the Empire of Japan to take effect August 1 of this year, Parcels-Post packages for destinations in Japan will be admitted on and after the above date to the mails for Japan made up and dispatched from this country.

"Parcels exchanged between the United States and Japan must not exceed $50 in value, weigh more than four pounds and six ounces, nor measure more than three feet six inches in length, and six feet in length and girth combined.

"Postage must be prepaid in full at the following rates, viz.:

"In the United States on parcels for Japan, twelve cents for each pound or fraction of a pound, and—

"In Japan for parcels for the United States, twenty-four sen for each pound or fraction of a pound.

"A delivery charge not exceeding five cents in the United States or ten sen in Japan may be collected from the addressees of each parcel.

"Parcel-Post mails for Japan will be made up at the postoffices of San Francisco, Seattle, Tacoma and Honolulu.

"Postmasters will cause due notice of the foregoing to be taken at their offices."

SIGNALS ON MAIL BOXES.

Another matter which will be of more interest to the general public, and especially to those who are taking advantage of the rural mail service, is the order which states that suitable signals shall be placed on rural mail boxes to indicate whether or not there is mail therein. Many of the patrons along the rural mail routes out of Sterling have mail boxes that comply with the regulation, while some others have not the required equipment. The order is entitled Order No. 788a, and is as follows:

"Ordered: That Order No. 739, dated July 9, 1902, be and the same is hereby amended so as to provide that all approved rural mail boxes be equipped with a suitable signal for the purpose of indicating whether or not there is mail therein.

"That more than one family be permitted the use the same rural mail box, provided, that written notice of such agreement between two or more families is filed with the postmaster at the distributing postoffice:

"That postmasters may order for prospective patrons any approved box selected by the patron and upon the patron's request; but postmasters are prohibited from receiving any compensation or profit therefor."

Democratic Congressional Meet.

The Democratic Congressional convention of the 13th district of Illinois has been called to meet at Freeport, Illinois, on Thursday, September 1, 1904, at 2 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of placing in nomination a candidate for representative in congress, a member of the state board of equalization and for such other business as may properly come before the meeting. Lee county is entitled to six delegates.

Whiteside Creamery Closed.

The creamery at Prophetstown operated by Fred Buell has been closed on account of financial difficulties. The amount generally paid to the farmers monthly for milk was between $1,800 and $2,000. Mr. Buell's bankers in Prophetstown report that no bankruptcy proceedings have as yet been started, but it is supposed that Mr. Buell is now making arrangements to do so with his attorneys.

A TRIBUTE TO PATTON

Supt. Anderson of Anti-Saloon League on Prohibition Candidate.

With reference to Hon. Robert H. Patton, the Prohibition candidate for governor of Illinois, who will speak at Nachusa House park Monday evening, William H. Anderson, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Illinois, says:

"Mr. Patton is a consistent and active member of the Baptist church, a successful lawyer of far more than ordinary ability, absolutely faithful to every interest committed to his hand, entirely fearless in the discharge of any duty, and a well-balanced, level-headed business man who enjoys the respect and confidence of all reputable people who know him.

"We believe that his undoubted ability, rugged personality and sterling character will add strength to his ticket."

DIXON KEEPS FREIGHT

Peoria Train Now Connecting Here
Will Remain on Its Present Run.

OFFICIALS DECIDE THE MATTER

Only Way Company Can Take Care of Dixon Passengers.

The question as to whether the Northwestern would retain the Peoria way freight connections in this city was recently broached, but the Sterling Gazette quiets the fears of Dixon people with the following explanation:

The Dixon merchants do not need to be greatly worried over any attempt of the Sterling merchants to remove the Dixon way freight from the Peoria road. No such attempt has been made; neither will it be made. The Northwestern, however, has decided to transfer all freight over the Peoria road at Sterling. The way freight from Peoria to Dixon will set out all the freight cars at Nelson and will go to Dixon with the engine and caboose only, while the way freight will be picked up by another train and brought to Sterling. All cars sent to Peoria or enroute will be left off at Sterling and will be taken to Nelson where they will be picked up by the Dixon way freight.

The company had under consideration the advisability, however, of making the change and of bringing the Dixon way freight to this city. Upon investigation, however, it was found that there would be no method of getting the Dixon passengers to the Peoria passenger train without bringing them to Sterling, and the company therefore decided to have the way freight run from Nelson to Dixon and vice versa every day. Sterling at the present time has a way freight and the fact that the freight is to be transferred here gives the city of Sterling two way freights, in addition to an extra force of men to work at the Northwestern depot.

DAY FOR OLD PEOPLE

The Interesting Exercises at Oakdale
Campmeeting Friday Drew a Large Attendance.

BEAUTIFUL TRIBUTE TO OLD AGE

Patriarch at the Meeting Was William Matter, Aged 96.

Freeport, Ill., Aug. 20.—Old People's Day was celebrated yesterday at the Oakdale camp. Bishop Heil gave the sermon of the day. It was a beautiful and touching tribute to old age. His text was taken from the nineteenth chapter of Leviticus and the 32d verse and Prov. 16:31.

All old people, fifty years and over, were requested to take seats on the platform and as a result the platform was filled. The oldest person was William Matter of Atolkey. Mr. Matter is ninety-six years of age and is a familiar figure at Oakdale camp. At 3:30 the annual experience meeting was held, a service enjoyed by all, old and young alike giving in their testimony. Prof. Trowbridge rendered several solos during the day.

The afternoon session was editing and uplifting. After a few appropriate words from Presiding Elder Unangst, the flower committee planned upon each of the old people a handsome nosegay as a token of love and appreciation for long and faithful service.

Bishop Heil then proceeded with the communion. Fully 300 partook of the broken body of our Lord. The old fashioned testimony meeting followed.

Mrs. Emma Divan, of Cedarville, led the 6:30 services. Rev. L. O. Schmidt, of Polo, preached the evening sermon from the words, "Arise and let us hence." The theme, "Arise and let us hence," was presented in his usual forceful and telling manner. It was a powerful plea to the unconverted to arise and go to Jesus. A blessed altar service followed.

Brings Suit for $300.

This afternoon papers were filed in a suit for $300 by D. L. McLaughlin of Kewanee against the Neola Elevator Co. Atty. J. W. Beemer represents the plaintiff. The suit is based on the statute concerning the landlord's lien. Mr. McLaughlin is the owner of a farm in East Grove township, the tenant of which has neglected to pay the rent due. The tenant, however, did not fail to sell all the grain crop to the Neola Elevator Co. which McLaughlin is now suing for the $300 which should have been paid to him instead of the tenant.

BIDS ARE REJECTED

For Sterling Y. M. C. A., All Being Too High; Change Plans.

The Sterling Y. M. C. A. building committee rejected all the bids for the new building at the meeting of the committee held Friday. Five bids were received and after carefully examining them the committee decided that they were all too high and far above the total aggregate of the subscription. The committee would have let the contract had the bids not exceeded $21,000. It has decided, however, to go carefully over the plans and specifications and modify them. The modifications, however, will not change the general utility of the building, size, dimensions, stability or general size. The changes will probably consist of having the walls, which were to be tinted and frescoed, made of a plain white, and to use common brick on the walls in the interior of the gymnasium rooms instead of the red pressed brick. A committee composed of John G. Wetzel and A. J. McNeil was appointed to investigate the advisability of using the concrete blocks instead of red pressed brick for the exterior walls.

TEMPERANCE SUNDAY

Will Be Observed Tomorrow at the Franklin Grove Camp Grounds
---Crowd Expected.

MAJOR MERWIN WILL BE SPEAKER

Many Campers on Grounds---Rain Has Retarded Interest.

Franklin Grove, Ill., Aug. 20.—The almost incessant rain has interfered with the opening of the temperance session of the Methodist campmeeting but a large crowd is expected tomorrow. There are more tents in use and cottages occupied on the grounds this year than ever before and an interesting session is expected next week.

Tomorrow will be "Temperance Sunday" and while there is not generally as large a crowd as on the regular "Campmeeting Sunday," August 28th, an excellent attendance is anticipated. Major J. B. Merwin of St. Louis will be the principal speaker tomorrow. Others will be Dr. M. C. B. Mason, (colored) secretary of the Freedman's Aid society, and Stephen J. Herben, the new editor of the Epworth Herald. A. W. Rosecrans, superintendent of the Lee County S. S. association will teach the Sunday school at 1:00 p. m. Major Merwin's subject will be "Something New About Abraham Lincoln," a discussion of practical temperance work done by and with the great emancipator by one who was a helper in those early days.

BRADFORD RESIDENTS EXCITED

Hearing Given This Morning to the Hart Petition.

The court house was filled this morning with the hum of the talk indulged in by the excited residents of Bradford township. The excitement was occasioned by the hearing of the Hart petition for the increasing of the Inlet swamp district. The petitioners desire that certain lands lying in the vicinity of the Inlet swamp district which are receiving certain benefits, should be made a part of the district. The petition was presented to the county court by Atty. A. C. Bardwell who is the counsel for the drainage commissioners. The residents of Bradford township who are doing the objecting to the petition were represented by Atty. E. H. Brewster.

Atty. Brewster replied for the objectors and said that they had not much to say at the present; but they desired the court at its convenience, should visit the contested district so that it might get a personal idea of the problem. Accordingly before the proceedings are brought to a close, Judge Scott will in all probability, make a personal visit to the drainage district.

The hearing was continued all this afternoon. During the afternoon about thirty witnesses were examined. These proceedings are causing considerable interest among the residents of Bradford township, as is shown by the number in attendance at the hearing at the court house. Many property owners are very loud in their protests against the petition to annex the property in the vicinity of Bradford township to the Inlet Swamp drainage district.

Candidates should be judged by the platforms upon which they stand and not by their personal views upon questions which concern the people.

DEPARTED THIS LIFE

Mrs. John Gaffney Passed Away Last
Evening at 5 o'Clock at Galena Avenue Home.

FUNERAL SUNDAY AT 2:30 P. M.

Services Over Remains of L. G. Duchack Sunday Afternoon.

Mrs. John Gaffney died last evening at 5 o'clock at her home at No. 602 Galena avenue, after an illness of seven weeks duration from carcinoma. Her maiden name was Annie K. Katzing and was born at Greenfield, Wisconsin, on November 11, 1853. She resided in that city until 1881, on December 11th of which year she was united in marriage with John Gaffney, who survives her. They went to Chicago to make their home and remained there until 1890 and have lived here since. Besides her husband Mrs. Gaffney leaves two sisters, Mrs. Nellie Hartigan of Joliet and Miss Maggie Katzing of Greenfield, Wis.

The funeral services will be held at the late home Sunday at 2 p. m., and at St. Patrick's Catholic church, Rev. Father Foley officiating, at 2:30 p. m. Interment will be at Oakwood cemetery.

FUNERAL OF L. G. DUCHACK.

The arrangements for the funeral of the late L. G. Duchack, who died very suddenly yesterday afternoon, are not yet completed as all the relatives have not arrived. Miss Jessie Duchack will be here from Chicago this evening, a brother of the deceased is expected from Oklahoma and a sister Mrs. Mary Fritz from LaCrosse, Wis. Brief funeral services will probably be held at the home of Mrs. Mary Trein Sunday afternoon and the remains will then be shipped to LaCrosse, Wis., for burial.

ORATORS IN OWN CARS

Special Trains for the Use of Speaker
Cannon and Senator
Fairbanks.

MUCH HARD WORK MAPPED OUT

The Two Spellbinders to Be Kept Busy in Many States.

"Uncle Joe" Cannon and Senator Charles W. Fairbanks will be provided with special trains during the campaign. "Uncle Joe" will be supplied with his "flyer" by the Republican congressional committee, while Senator Fairbanks will be furnished trains by the national committee.

Senator Fairbanks will open the Kansas campaign on Sept. 1, but it will not be necessary to supply him with a special train for that trip, as he will not have enough engagements to necessitate rapid transportation. He will go from Kansas to Maine, where he will speak Sept. 6 and 7, and on his return he will begin his swing around the circle.

BUSY TIME FOR CANNON.

Speaker Cannon will begin his tour not later than Sept. 15, and from that time until election day there will be little rest for him. He will have to travel, sleep and eat on the special train. First he will go to Minneapolis and after a couple of speeches in Minnesota his train will be sent through Wisconsin.

Secretary of the Treasury Leslie M. Shaw will arrive from the East this morning to begin his western trip. Former Senator Thomas H. Carter of Montana arrived last night and will join Secretary Shaw this morning. They will go directly to Helena, where Mr. Shaw will speak, and then will visit Washington, Oregon, California, Utah, Colorado and Kansas.

CHICAGO DAY SPEAKING.

The Marquette Club has arranged for a big Republican demonstration in the Auditorium on Saturday night, Oct. 8, in observance of Chicago day, Oct. 9, which falls on Sunday this year. Among those who will be asked to speak are Senator Fairbanks, Speaker Cannon, Congressman James Watson of Indiana and Congressman William Alden Smith of Michigan.

How Women Suffer.

Silently and Alone They Bear With Patience Burdens That Would Crush Strong Men.

TRIAL BOTTLE MAILED FREE.

In this country to-day there are thousands of women whose days are filled with constant suffering. There is the dull headache, the dragging backache, the hot flushes, that awful tired feeling, too sick and faint to work, too well to go to bed. Men have little knowledge of the suffering their women go through day after day. Many

MRS. CHAS. A. WEIDNER, 1340 Congress St., Chicago, Saved by Zoa Phora. times such illness is attributed to biliousness, the after-effect of a cold when it is really a derangement of the nervous system caused by female weakness or disease of the genital organs. Zoa Phora is a remedy that cures all nervous disorders of women because it regulates the menses and relieves them of pain. It cures prostrations because it strengthens the muscles supporting the parts, and renews the nerve force. It is marvelous in its tonic effects and women who have been tired, listless, with headaches and backaches marring their every pleasure, have in a single week been changed from suffering, morose, irritable beings to bright, happy, cheerful women who find a pleasure in their household duties because they have a new and natural strength to perform them without fatigue, simply by use of the wonderful Zoa Phora. Write the Zoa Phora Co., Kalamazoo, Mich., for a free trial bottle and copy of their illustrated medical book, "Dr. Pongelly's Advice to Women." ## ONE MORE RUSS SHIP GONE DOWN

Gunboat Strikes a Mine Near Port Arthur and Goes to the Bottom.

JAPS WORRY ABOUT SHANGHAI

Afraid the Russian Warships There Will Slip Away.

Line of Japanese Guns Closing in on Port Arthur—Desperate Instructions for the Czar's Ships in Port There.

London, Aug. 20.—A dispatch to the Japanese legation from Tokio, dated yesterday, says: "According to a report from our watch tower near Port Arthur a Russian gunboat of the Otravni type struck a mine and sank off Liaotai promontory at 7:52 p. m. yesterday."

Washington, Aug. 20.—Consul General Goodnow has cabled the state department from Shanghai that the Chinese total there has reported against the claim of the Russian consul general, and decided that the torpedo boat destroyer now at that port must go out or disarm by the 20th inst., and that the cruiser (Askold) must do likewise by the 21st inst.

Jap Consul Makes Demands.

Shanghai, Aug. 20.—After hearing of the total's decision to allow the Russian torpedo boat destroyer Grozovoi and the cruiser Askold to remain in port for what would be considered a reasonable length of time to make repairs, the Japanese consul general made demands that the vessels either leave port or disarm. The ships are carefully guarded by customs officials, and lighters are waiting to coal the Askold. Semi-official reports state that the Japanese fleet will make a demonstration outside the harbor on Tuesday. The damage to the Askold is greater than expected and cannot be repaired under three weeks.

How They Feel at Tokio.

Tokio, Aug. 20.—The Japanese are growing impatient at the delay in the decision of the status of the Russian cruiser Askold at Shanghai. The Askold has docked and is refitting, and evidently intends to endeavor to rejoin the Russian fleet and resume its place in the naval campaign. This is declared to be an open violation of neutrality, which the Chinese government evidently is powerless to prevent. Many Japanese openly urge the dispatch of a squadron to Shanghai to seize and remove the Askold. The government is particularly desirous of respecting the neutrality of Shanghai, but it is unwilling to suffer the Askold to escape.

STEADY AND BLOODY FIGHTING

Follows the Refusal of Gen. Stoessel to Surrender Port Arthur.

London, Aug. 20.—What is going on around Port Arthur is only obtainable from refugees arriving at Chefoo. But it is without question that bloody fighting occupies each day. Following the refusal of the Russians to surrender, so Chefoo reports say, the Japs resumed their desperate struggle for the fortress. Having captured the heights of Liaotshan, 1,500 feet above the sea level, and dominating both the harbor and the town, the heavy siege guns of the mikado are pouring an incessant hail of shells into the stronghold. New positions taken by the Japanese render the harbor untenable for the Russian fleet as soon as the heavy siege guns can be mounted. Togo is lying outside the harbor waiting for the quarry which must soon rush out into his arms. Then will be written another thrilling chapter of the war.

A St. Petersburg dispatch says that "on one point there is absolute unanimity here—namely, that if the fortress falls the fleet will not fall into the hands of the Japanese. On this point the admiralty's instructions are of the most imperative character. Vice Admiral Prince Oukotomsky has been ordered, should the worst come, to sail forth for a death struggle, and there is no question here that these instructions will be carried out both in letter and in spirit; but if for any reason a final sortie proves to be impossible the admiral is to destroy his ships, and to make certain that their wreckage shall be absolutely irreparable."

BALTIC FLEET STILL WAITS

Has Steam Up, but the Authorities Are Hesitating.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 20.—Vice Admiral Rojestevsky's Baltic squadron, including the battleship Orel, is standing off Cronstadt with steam up. It is popularly expected that the squadron will sail at any hour, and it is quite true that it is ready for almost immediate departure; but regarding the question of sailing there is a difference of opinion among the naval authorities. It is held on the one hand that the immediate sailing of the squadron would be the best policy, on the theory that should it arrive within two months it would find Vice Admiral Togo's fleet in an infinitely worse condition than if the Japanese were allowed the whole winter to repair and refit the ships. The advocates of an immediate sailing hold that the port of Vladivostok is capable of receiving the squadron, even should entrance to Port Arthur prove to be impracticable, and they wish to treat the Port Arthur squadron for the present as a negligible quantity, letting the Baltic sea vessels meet the Japanese in its present weakened condition, without relying for any certain assistance, either on Vice Admiral Oukotomsky or Vice Admiral Skrydloff.

Other officials hold that it would be unwise to risk sending the Baltic squadron to the Far East until the situation at Port Arthur has been cleared, and until it is known what conditions the squadron would be likely to find on its arrival.

Is It a British Question?

London, Aug. 20.—The Times correspondent at Shanghai says that the fleet there now occupied by the Russian cruiser Askold belongs to a British company, and is not subject to Chinese jurisdiction. The question therefore arises, the correspondent says, whether it is the duty of the British authorities to define and enforce neutrality.

Admiral Kamimura's Casualties.

Tokio, Aug. 20.—An official list of casualties to Vice Admiral Kamimura's division in the engagement in the straits of Korea on Aug. 14 shows that the most serious occurred on board the armored cruiser Iwate, on which vessel two officers and thirty-two men were wounded.

Japan to Have Auxiliaries.

London, Aug. 20.—The Tokio correspondent of The Times says that the Japanese marine association has resolved to form a volunteer fleet of auxiliary cruisers.

NEW MOVES OF STRIKERS

Chicago Butchers Destroy Signs of Packers—Retailers Force to Boycott the "Unfair" Packers.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—The striking packing house employees here have started two new moves in an attempt to avert defeat. One is the wanton destruction of the large advertising signs put up by the packers who refuse to treat with the strikers. The signs consist of a framework covered with boards and on these are painted the products of the packing houses. Several of these structures were reduced to kindling wood. There were also several brutal attacks on non-union men by pickets. One of the victims had to be taken to the hospital.

Three of eight steers which stampeded from their drivers Thursday night were killed by strikers and turned into beef for their families. The other five were recovered by their owners. The other new move of the strikers is the forcing of wholesalers and retailers of meat to sign bonds of $500 each, with the assurance that they will handle nothing but union and independent meat so long as the strike continues. Two dealers were forced to sign these bonds. Corporation counsel has decided that the packers are not violating law regarding lodging houses by housing men inside the yards, but that they must begin the building of more fire escapes right away, as the buildings in which the men are housed are deficient therein.

George F. Golden, who told a teamster to avoid trouble by taking a load of meat back to the packers, was acquitted by a jury in a justice's court on a charge of disorderly conduct. Golden is head of the packing house teamsters.

Representatives of twenty-five labor unions met at the rooms of the Federation to discuss what the leaders call a plan of "sympathetic action," which it is said will involve every labor unionist in Chicago.

NATIONAL ENCAMPMENT ENDS

Veterans Are Leaving Boston for Their Homes—Illinois Man Heads the Sons of Veterans.

Boston, Aug. 20.—The thirty-eighth national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic has been practically brought to a close by the departure of several thousand veterans from the city and by the adjournment of the conventions of the various organizations which are branches of the G. A. R. William T. Dustin, of Dwight, Ill., was elected commander-in-chief of the national Sons of Veterans by acclamation. It was voted to hold the next annual convention at Gettysburg, Pa. A new constitution was adopted.

Accident at the World's Fair.

St. Louis, Aug. 20.—A nineteen-pound steel projectile fired from a mortar in the exhibition of the United States life-saving corps flew wide and struck and injured three men—David Laskey, of St. Louis, ankle broken; Joseph Fleming, Lexington, Mo., fracture of thigh; John C. Gronewood, of Kankakee, Ill., bruise on thigh.

SCORES ON THE BALL FIELDS

Chicago, Aug. 20.—Following are the base ball scores: League: At New York—Pittsburg 3, New York 2; no other games scheduled.

American: At Washington—Detroit 5, Washington 0; at Philadelphia 1—Cleveland 2, Philadelphia 1—eleven innings; at Boston—St. Louis 5, Boston 2; at New York—Chicago 1, New York 3.

Western: At Sioux City—St. Joseph 6, Sioux City 1; at Denver—Des Moines 0, Denver 1; at Colorado Springs—Omaha 9, Colorado Springs 5.

THE EVENING STORY

FOR DIXON TELEGRAPH READERS

Sequel to the Measles

By HARRIET G. CANFIELD

Copyright, 1904, by M. Wood

Kitty stood at Miss Tremont's door, smiling broadly. "Here's a note, ma'am," she said, holding out a piece of newspaper scribbled along the margin. "The little fellow on the second floor said I should give it to you. He's just gettin' over the measles an' awful lonesome. It's written on the bias like, ma'am."

"Poor little man!" Miss Tremont said sympathetically. "I don't seem to remember him, Kitty."

"No'm; they just moved in this week, an' they've kept quiet like—there's no one but the little fellow an' his uncle. He paints women's heads—mostly red-headed ones—in their back parlor, but he's out today, an' I'm getting paid for lookin' out for Jimmie—that's his name, ma'am."

Miss Tremont read the note and smiled. "Tell him I'll be there soon, Kitty," she said.

Jimmie's note was short and phonetically spelled. "Dear Miss Tremont," it said, "I wish you wood ples come down and see me. My eyes are week, and Kitty only noes 'bout Cinderella. So no more from your young friend, Jimmie B."

When Miss Tremont knocked at her little neighbor's door an eager, boyish voice called out, "Come right in!" Jimmie was sitting up in bed, supported by many pillows. He was very thin and weak—all eyes and beak, like a young robin," Kitty said. "Shake!" he said, holding out a thin little hand. "I can't give 'em to you now—the measles, I mean. It's first class of you to come. Kitty thought you would. Sit down, won't you? It's pretty dark in here—count of my eyes—but I can see you're awful pretty."

Miss Tremont laughed and drew a chair close to the bed. "Thank you," she said brightly. "Did Kitty suggest that you send for me?"

"No. But it's too dark in here to read, an' Kitty just knew one story, an' after I'd heard that three times she said maybe Miss Tremont could tell me some. An' I asked her would she go for you. You can tell me anything you want to. I'm specially intersted in bears an' Indians an' cannibals."

A TALL YOUNG MAN WAS STANDING IN THE DOORWAY.

Miss Tremont laughed again and leaned back in the easy chair in pleasant anticipation. She had frequently told stories to an appreciative audience in her sister's nursery, when eager little faces sought hers in breathless expectation and eager little voices pleaded for "just one more, please—about Indians."

It was a pleasure to bear this weary little soul away on the wings of her imagination—away from the second floor bedroom and the measles. Together they roamed the plains with the red men, climbed trees with the black bears and were cast away on cannibal islands, where only living skeletons were safe.

Neither Miss Tremont nor her delighted little hearer was conscious of the passage of time. "And the little cub climbed a persimmon tree and escaped from the hunter," she was saying when the clock struck.

"Was it 4 or 5?" she said. Jimmie sighed and came back to everyday life and the measles. "I don't know," he said. "You can look an' see, if you'd like to."

Miss Tremont went into the back parlor, and presently Jimmie heard a startled exclamation.

"Is it so late?" he called. She came back and stood by his bed. "I—I—didn't look at the clock," she stammered. "There was a picture on the easel—the paint was fresh—it was a picture of—who painted it, Jimmie?"

"Uncle Hal, I suppose," he said languidly. Pictures were not as interesting as cannibals. But Miss Tremont seemed to think that they were. "It's a woman's picture, isn't it?" he said politely. "Uncle Hal said he was working on a stunner. He didn't just call it a stunner, but it meant the same—his 'masterpiece,' I believe he said. Has she got red hair? Not bright red, but a dark brownish kind, like yours? Most all Uncle Hal's pictures have red hair. Kitty says she guesses red paint comes cheaper. Uncle Hal calls it 'auburn.' Miss Tremont's face flushed and the white lids curtained her telltale eyes. "Uncle Hal, did you say?" she asked softly. "Once upon a time," she continued, to the delight of Jimmie, who thought the words prefaced another story, "I had a friend—an artist—whose name was Hal."

"Haven't you got him yet?" Jimmie asked.

"No. I sent him away—I didn't know how dear he was to me—I wouldn't do it now, Jimmie—and he was—"

"Eaten by cannibals?" Jimmie interrupted in an awestruck voice.

Miss Tremont smiled and looked up. A tall young man, with fine eyes, was standing in the doorway, looking at them.

"Uncle Hal!" Jimmie cried. "Uncle Hal, here's Miss Tremont. She came in to—" But, to Jimmie's surprise, Uncle Hal had crossed the room and was holding Miss Tremont's hands in his.

"Kate, dear, will you forgive me for listening to what you said to Jimmie? Your words have made me very happy, dear."

Jimmie wondered what it was that had pleased Uncle Hal so much—the bears or the Indians or the cannibals. "I'll bet it was the cannibal story," he said to himself. "She's a Jim Dandy at 'em!"

"Will you forgive me for listening?" Uncle Hal said again.

"Why not?" Miss Tremont asked softly—so softly that Jimmie barely heard her. "It was true, Hal."

Jimmie's eyes opened wide. "Cannibals and all?" he said. But Miss Tremont didn't hear him. Uncle Hal was talking to her again. He coughed once or twice, but they didn't notice him. "You'll have to speak a little louder," he said at last, "if you want me to hear."

Miss Tremont's face grew very pink, and Uncle Hal laughed aloud.

"Never mind, Jimmie boy," he said. "I've been persuading Miss Tremont to adopt you—you'll like that, old fellow?"

"Like it?" Jimmie shouted for joy. Then a sudden doubt assailed him. "Would you mind taking Uncle Hal, too, Miss Tremont?" he said anxiously. "We belong together."

Miss Tremont's laughing eyes met the artist's for a moment. "I understood," she said demurely, "that he was to be thrown in."

Two Lives Saved.

"At a certain suburban station," said a railroad official, "a train was starting off one morning when an elderly man rushed across the platform and jumped on one of the slowly moving cars."

"The rear end brakeman, who was standing by, reached up, grabbed the old man's coat tails and pulled him off the train."

"There," he said sternly. "I have saved your life. Don't ever try to jump on like that again."

"Thank you," said the old man calmly. "Thank you for your thoughtful kindness. It is three hours till the next train, isn't it?"

"Three and a quarter," said the brakeman.

"The long train, meanwhile, had been slowly gliding by, slowly gathering speed. Finally the last car appeared. This was the brakeman's car, the one for which he had been waiting, and with the easy grace that is born of long practice he sailed majestically on to it."

"But the old gentleman seized him by the coat and with a strong jerk pulled him off, at the same time saying grimly:

"One good turn deserves another. You saved my life; I have saved yours. Now we are quits."

They Were Celebrated in the Time of the Ancient Romans.

For ages May day has been a time of general rejoicing. All over Christendom its advent is hailed with delight. The birds, the bees and the flowers join us in an annual celebration of the day. Nature has at last thrown off the snow quilt with which she has braved the ravages of winter and gloves resplendent in buds and blossoms. The streams have broken their icy fetters and burst forth into joyous accompaniments to myriads of bird choristers. And humanity, overpowered by the same glad spirit, seeks the woods and the fields to revel in the wealth of verdure so lavishly spread out.

Among the Romans this feeling found vent in their Floralia, or flora games, which began on the 28th of April and lasted several days. We read that "nations taking more or less their origin from Rome have settled upon the 1st of May as the special time for fetes of the same kind. With ancients and moderns alike it was an instinctive rush into the fields to revel in the bloom which was newly presented on the meadows and the trees."

The barbarous Celtic populations held a heathen festival on this day, but we are not told that it was in any way connected with flowers. It was called Beltein and was celebrated by kindling fires on the hilltops at night. Within the remembrance of many the peasantry of Ireland, the Isle of Man and of the Scottish highlands also held similar celebrations.—Table Talk.

WIND HITS ST. LOUIS

Regular Twister Lights Down on the World's Fair Town—Much Havoc Wrought.

ONE KILLED AND SCORES HURT

Strikes a Ferryboat in the Middle of the River on Its Way to Illinois—Details of the Damage.

St. Louis, Aug. 20.—A tornado of small proportions but of extreme fury swept down upon the residence portion of north St. Louis, resulting in the death of two persons, injury to probably fifty, and damage to property estimated at $100,000. John Ellington and Joe —, a boy, are dead. Names of injured people are: Jacob Har-meste, shoulder dislocated; William H. Linham, cut; Edward Papison, badly cut; Girtwood Powinski, burned by live wire, seriously; James Crosby, broken hip; William Ditchbauer, leg and arm broken; William Fouche, and Louis McCullin, legs broken; Herman Sauerwine, aged 10, arm broken and crushed, probably die; William Egger, bruised; W. H. Langan, cut and bruised; T. A. Sommers, bruised; W. Fricke, scalp wound; William Yorick, leg broken; six employees in Niedringhaus' rolling mill, not seriously, names unknown.

Was a Regular Rotary Terror. The atmosphere had become very murky and hot when citizens in north St. Louis noticed a dark cloud approaching from the southwest. Suddenly an arm seemed to shoot to the ground like a gigantic cable, twisting and turning. The end touched the ground at Nineteenth and Angelrod streets, and with incredible swiftness and force swept east along Angelrod for ten blocks, then turned north and swept three blocks along Broadway, when it jumped eight blocks northeast to the foot of Bremen street and the river, where considerable property along the river front was destroyed. The tornado then jumped to about the middle of the river and encountered a ferry boat, which was turned and tossed about, but was not sunk.

Kills a Man in Illinois. Leaving the ferry the capricious tornado once more jumped and struck the Illinois shore near Madison, where it demolished several dwellings, the Leidenkranz hall, and blew down a portion of the Madison Cooper works, killing John Ellington. Severe damage was done also to buildings in Venice and Granite City, which adjoin Madison, and a number of persons was injured.

MUCH DAMAGE TO PROPERTY

Narrow Escape of Trolley Car Passengers—Many Narrow Escapes.

In the stillness that followed the wind in north St. Louis cries were heard on all sides as terror-stricken persons ran about the streets. Not a telegraph, telephone or trolley pole was left standing along the streets swept by the twister, and trees were piled in heaps. The width of the tornado was about a block and a half, and houses were unroofed, window panes generally demolished, several large manufactories partly demolished, and the streets littered thick with debris. A Broadway trolley car containing eleven passengers was suddenly buried under six telegraph poles, which crashed into the top and wrecked the car. No one was hurt except the motorman, and he only slightly.

The roof and one-half of the top story of Sommers Bros' tailoring manufacturing company's establishment were blown away. Probably the heaviest loss suffered by a single concern was the destruction accomplished at the Niedringhaus rolling mill. The plant covers two squares in extent. The big smokestack was blown down and half the plant was demolished, entailing estimated damage of $25,000. Part of the roof and two cupolas were blown from the Roman Catholic church of Our Lady of Good Counsel. The side of the Buck Stove and Range company plant was blown in. Many remarkable escapes from death are related by drivers of different delivery wagons. Debris carried along by the wind crushed wagons like eggshells and hurled the drivers into the street. Only one driver was badly hurt. Not the slightest damage was done at the World's fair grounds. The wind was not felt there at all.

DELUGE OF WATER FOLLOWS

Some Wind, Too, and It All Hits the World's Fair.

A terrific thunder storm broke over St. Louis after the tornado had passed and rain fell in torrents, accompanied by heavy wind. The force of the storm blew in the north windows of the Utah state building at the World's fair grounds and rain did damage to the carpets and tapestries estimated at from $150 to $200. A concert was in progress in Festival hall at the exposition during the storm, when suddenly there was a flash of lightning and all the lights went out. Instantly the audience became panic-stricken and a panic was only prevented by a woman's voice taking up the strains of "America," the others joining in. Other familiar songs followed and the audience left the building singing, but without excitement.

In the Chinese village on the Pike 300 Chinamen, just arrived, were being watched over by immigration officers temporarily, when the storm struck. The celestials became panic-stricken and the officers were forced to draw revolvers to subdue the excitement. Lightning struck nearby and one Chinaman was severely shocked, while another jumped from the roof of the building and broke his arm. The band stand in the Plaza of St. Louis was struck by lightning, and was burned before the rain extinguished the flames.

MANY HURT AT VENICE

One Woman Is Killed—Pouring Rain Later Adds to the Damage.

Venice, Ill., Aug. 20.—The tornado that swept across the river from north St. Louis killed one person here, injured ten others, and caused considerable damage to property. The tornado was of short duration, but was remarkably destructive in force. Mrs. Margaret C. Beal was killed and the following injured: Mrs. Thomas Mitchell, bruised; Mrs. Thomas Wheelers, crushed by tree; Mrs. Nellie Schmidt, seriously injured; John Bennett, son of city marshal, leg fractured; Westie Bennett, another son, arm broken; Miss Laura Bennett, daughter, cut and bruised; Minnie Bennett, daughter, aged 3, hip fractured; Mrs. Bennett, bruised; John Foster, struck by debris; Mrs. John Foster, bruised.

The tornado was seen jumping across the river, but almost before a word of alarm could be given it swept into Illinois north of Venice, turned, and the next moment was plunging its way through the streets. Mrs. Beal was killed by the falling debris of her home, which was blown to pieces. Mrs. Wheelers was the occupant of a house boat moored along the river, which was crushed by a falling tree, and she was seriously injured. The members of the Bennett family had hurried into a small woodshed which, was demolished and every member of the group received injury.

Trees were blown down a number of houses was unroofed. Later a pouring rain storm deluged Venice and added greatly to the damage already wrought by flooding unroofed residences and buildings.

Flood Drowns a Whole Family.

El Paso, Tex., Aug. 20.—A rain torrent at Globe, A. T., has resulted in several deaths, and the destruction of much property. Wires to the section affected are down, but a passenger who arrived at Bowie, A. T., says that a man named Mitchell and his wife and four children, have been drowned.

CHECKS ISSUED, BUT NO FUNDS

Situation of That Kind Said to Have Gotten a Hard-Up Cheese Man Into Serious Trouble.

Shawano, Wis., Aug. 20.—A. C. Worth, of Neenah, who operates fifteen cheese factories in Shawano and adjoining counties, has been arrested here on a warrant charging him with issuing checks with intent to defraud, having no funds on deposit. His preliminary examination has been set for Sept. 2. The alleged worthless checks were drawn on a Chiltonville bank in payments for milk.

Worth's factories at Herman's Fort, Leopold and Caroline, and their contents were attached by farmers and other creditors two weeks ago. A meeting of his creditors in this county was held Wednesday, when it was decided to institute criminal proceedings. Worth declined to make any statement.

Emery Charged with Embezzlement.

Milwaukee, Aug. 20.—George D. Emery, recently in the employ of the Milwaukee office of the Bartlett, Frazier & Carrington company, of Chicago, who was arrested a few days ago on a charge of conspiracy, has been released on bail and re-arrested on a warrant. The warrant charges embezzlement aggregating approximately $4,000. Emery furnished additional bail and was again released.

Burial of Mrs. Mary E. Fuller.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—The funeral party accompanying the remains of Mrs. Mary E. Fuller, wife of Melville W. Fuller, chief justice of the supreme court of the United States, who died suddenly at her summer home at Sorrento, Me., Wednesday afternoon, arrived in Chicago at noon today and proceeded at once to Graceland cemetery, where interment will take place at 2 p. m.

MILES WRITES TO PARKER

General Warmly Indorses the Judge's Speech Delivered at the Notification Meeting.

Esopus, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Judge Parker has made public a letter from Lieutenant General Nelson A. Miles, congratulating him upon his speech delivered at the notification ceremonies. The letter says: "I wish to express my appreciation of your most excellent address in accepting the Democratic nomination. It was more comprehensive, stronger and deeper, and presented in clearer light the most important principles of our government, than any speech or state paper produced in many years."

"I would not erase a line and cheerfully indorse every sentence. It will attract the attention of the thoughtful, patriotic citizens of our country; it will be a bow of promise and a star of hope to millions in the Orient who are now praying for liberty, and it will vibrate down through the republics of the western hemisphere, giving confidence to fifty millions of people living under democratic government copied after our own."

BADGER STATE'S CONTEST

Factions of the Republican Party Will Be Heard Sept. 12 by the State Central Committee.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 20.—The Republican state central committee which called the last state convention in the university gymnasium May 18, met in Woodmen's hall to comply with the law that provides that in case of a division or controversy in a party as to which of two conventions is regular the committee shall determine the question of regularity.

It was decided to issue a call for a hearing on Sept. 12, and invite representatives of both tickets to be present. Attorneys will be permitted to present arguments for each faction. The committee is then to decide which ticket shall be printed on the official ballot as "Republican ticket." The anti-La Follette faction, which was declared "regular" by the national convention, started proceedings before the supreme court on Aug. 9 with the same object in view.

INSURRECTION PROGRESSES

Looks Like Paraguay Might Soon Be Under Another Government—Demands of the Rebs.

Buenos Ayres, Aug. 20.—The insurgents have seized another steamer, which had on board the minister of war and a small escort. The minister and his companions were made prisoners. The vessel was towing four lighters loaded with 190 bullocks for the garrison. These were confiscated. The foreign ministers have offered their intervention, to which offer the insurgent leaders replied that they would permit President Ezcurra to continue in office, but would demand the resignation of the ministers and other high officials of the government. The insurgents' terms were conveyed to the government officials and promptly declined.

MRS. DORA I. E. LEFEVRE.

BRYANT, VA., Feb. 18, 1902.

My daughter-in-law, Lizzie Giles, found great benefit in Wine of Gardui. She had a miscarriage in March 1901, before using your medicine. She was in very bad health, so I persuaded her to try Wine of Gardui. Since then she has had a fine baby boy. Soon he will be three weeks old. She highly recommends Wine of Gardui.

My daughter, Fannie Hudson, also has a fine baby boy by your treatment. She highly appreciates Wine of Gardui.

MRS. LOUISA GILES.

FOLEYS' KIDNEY CURE

Will cure any case of Kidney or Bladder disease that is not beyond the reach of medicine.

GIVEN UP TO DIE.

B. Spiegel, 1204 N. Virginia St., Evansville, Ind., writes: "For over four years I was troubled with a kidney and bladder affection. I lost flesh and was unable to work. Three physicians failed to help me and I was given up to die. Foley's Kidney Cure was recommended and the first bottle gave me great relief and after taking the second bottle I was entirely cured."

Two Sizes 50 Cents and $1.00

Strawberry and Vegetable Dealers

Hudnut's Toilet Water and Cold Cream. Walgreen-Davis Co.
 —Atty. C. B. Morrison is out from Chicago.
 —Will Anderson returned to Ash-ton this morning.
 —Rev. H. C. Leland went to Chicago this morning.
 —Ira W. Lewis spent today at the Franklin Grove camp meeting.
 —W. F. Preston was at the Franklin Grove camp meeting today.
 —Mrs. E. M. Bunnell and son went to Franklin Grove this morning.
 —R. J. Bennett came out from Chicago yesterday for a week's stay.
 —Miss Ollie McCleary has returned to Nelson after a visit at the Jerry Hetler home.
 —Miss Edna Craig has returned to Rockford after a two weeks visit with Miss Carrie Trein.
 —Horace Street is here from Lake Geneva for a week's visit with his parents on Third street.
 —Miss Bessie Spielman from Hagers town, Md., is visiting at the home of her uncle, Daniel Spellman.
 —The mere thought of Uncle Sam's Celebrated Pills for the Cure of Indigestion wrought an immediate change in the condition of the sick man of Europe.
 —Chris. Stauffernecker, living five miles east, returned this morning from Benton county, Minn., where he has been looking at land for several days. He is well pleased with that section.
 —The man who floated down the Mississippi from Keokuk to St. Louis on a log returned home by rail. He missed his chance for immortalizing himself. He should have floated back on the log.
 —Mrs. Kitty Mellick, Mrs. Grace Senneff and the Misses Oglesby, who are here on a visit with the father of the first-named, Jerry Hetler, are arranging to visit the St. Louis fair together next week.

Aurora Will Incorporate.
 Aurora, Ill., Aug. 20.—The Aurora Chautauqua association will be perpetuated and next week application will be made for incorporation papers. The lecturer yesterday was Prof. N. N. Riddell, who talked on "Brain Building and Soul Growth."
 Last night J. Franklin Caveny gave a program of chalk talk and clay modeling.
 Lawrence B. Stringer, democratic candidate for governor, will be the principal speaker today, democratic day.

Young Quail Numerous.
 Young quail are reported to be numerous and are now just big enough to fly. The dry weather was favorable to hatching and the protection of the chicks. Now if the game hags and pot hunters will leave them alone until November there will be fine sport, although very few farmers will allow hunters to kill quail on their premises.
